BIO

Having recently completed her secondary education, Lenka is prepared to dive headfirst into the world of film, television and theatre.

Her love for the arts was noticeable since the age of three, but it took her another five years until she was finally enrolled in acting lessons in her hometown of Pančevo, Serbia. She consistently got important parts in the pieces that the class was working on, as well as in school plays.

She simultaneously took acting, violin, solfège, English, and German lessons, until her family moved to Zurich, Switzerland in 2018. There, she took part in her secondary school's musical theatre programme. The two productions that took place during her time there could not be performed live due to COVID-19 restrictions, so the pieces were adapted for the screen. This was Lenka's first time acting in front of the camera, but the transition from stage to screen felt surprisingly smooth.

During her final year of high school, Lenka auditioned for multiple English-speaking productions in Zurich, and rediscovered her first love of theatre. Most recently, she performed at the Evening of Short Scenes and Monologues organized by the ZEST (Zurich English-Speaking Theatre) with an excerpt from "Fleabag" by Phoebe Waller-Bridge.
